

ESCAPES RUN DOWN Two Escaped Convicts Identified by Sheriff Howells. ARE WANTED IN IOWA

THEY WILL BE RETURNED TO
THAT STATE TODAY.

Broke Out of the Penitentiary and
Made Their Way to Utah, Where
They Got Into Trouble For Stealing—
Both Are Bad Men—Other
Runaways To Be Returned.

Through the ingenuity of Sheriff Howells, two desperate convicts of the hobo type will be surrendered today to officers from Iowa for return to that state, where they are wanted to serve out uncompleted sentences for grave offenses. The fugitives from justice who are to be forced to bid adieu to Utah are "Fatty" Johnson and L. J. Meeking. There are other escaped convicts from other states who are doing time now in Utah prisons and by the time their sentences expire Sheriff Howells will see to it that they are delivered over to officers in readiness to take them back to the places from which they have been missed for a long time.

Pursuing a scent that seemed like second sight, about six weeks ago, Sheriff Howells made the discovery that he had a prisoner in the county jail for whom a reward of $50 was offered. The prisoner was L. J. Meeking, alias Andrews, who escaped from the Iowa state prison a couple of years ago, where he was serving a long-term sentence. Soon after arriving in Utah last year the fugitive was caught stealing this county, and for his offense was sentenced to serve six months in the county jail. A photograph of Meeking was sent to Warden William A. Hunter of the Anamosa, Ia., penitentiary, and that officer answered that the prisoner should be held until he could come after him.

At the same time Sheriff Howells' intuition told him that "Fatty" Johnson, otherwise known as Dwyer, King and Howard, was another fugitive from justice from Iowa. "Fatty" is serving a term in the state prison for grand larceny, committed in this county last year. On his head also is a reward of $50.

Fugitives Are Identified.

Yesterday Warden Hunter arrived in this city from Anamosa, accompanied by C. A. Beemis of the bureau of inspection and recognition of escaped criminals. Both of the visiting officials at once recognized the two fugitives as escaped convicts from the Iowa penitentiary, and "Fatty" and Meeking acknowledged the accusation that they had left Iowa without proper leave of absence. Meeking's sentence expires on June 1, but "Fatty's" time will not be up for twelve days yet. However, an arrangement has been made whereby both prisoners will be released from custody today. As the fugitives walk from the prison walls, Warden Hunter and Inspector Beemis will take them in charge and escort them back to Iowa, where they will be held to penance for periods ranging from fifteen to twenty years.

The praise and commendation of discriminating traveling men is always valuable and influential. It is this class always in the majority at Don Porter's new hotel, "The Knottford," for do not qualify or abridge the pleasant or complimentary things they have to say of this particularly "nice" new hotel.
